A METROPOLIS OF THE PRAIRIE

First Canadian Pacific Train through Calgary

The evolution of an unfenced grazing ground into an up-to-date city of almost 60,000 inhabitants in the short space of thirty-five years, is the history of Calgary, metropolis and oldest city of Alberta.

There is nothing mushroom-like about this phenomenal growth; on the contrary it is based on the surest of foundations—farming. Calgary is the pivot of a vast agricultural section. Marvelous as has been the development of these prairie acres, they are as yet scarcely tapped. With the return of peace and renewed immigration, Calgary can confidently count on doubling her population in less than half the number of years that mark her age. Calgary was born in 1883. Her birthday was marked by the arrival of shining steel rails, fingers of commerce and industry feeling their way across the hitherto untraveled plains to unite two oceans. Shrewd pioneers following the rails into the west, saw unlimited possibilities for developing a town on the banks of the Bow before near the site of old Fort La Jonquiere founded by the French in 1752. They visioned the coming of settlers; the conversion of wild wide prairies into tilled fields and rich pastures; the waters of the tumbling Bow harnessed to turn the wheels of industry; the outside of agricultural products that would flow eastward and westward to feed the peoples of the earth, and the in-tide of newcomers attracted by the opportunities to be found only in a rich, new country. With this vision before them, they set to work to build a town—crude and wilderness in its early days, but soon taking on a form that makes it an almost ideal city today.

Owing to the proximity of the closely settled irrigation district between Calgary and Medicine Hat, and the fine farming country north and south, Calgary is the distributing center for a very prosperous agricultural area. Its streets are wide; its buildings substantial and, for the most part, of Laramie sandstone, which is plentiful in the neighborhood; it has many imposing commercial buildings and banks and a ten-story hotel, the Palliser. It claims to have more motor cars per head of the population than any other city in western Canada, and as the Canadian Rockies are within sight of the city's streets, these cars take many a family for a happy week-end in among the mountains round Banff.

NEW RECORDS FOR YOUR TALKING MACHINE

Barrientos and Lazaro, two of the most famous stars in the Metropolitan Opera's great galaxy, have joined voices for their first concerted Columbia number this month. They have selected the thrilling climax of Verdi's "Traviata"—the brilliant "Parigi O Cara." Here is an exquisite record of a great and beautiful aria by two of the most famous voices in the world.

The sparkling "Alta Vita" from the famous opera "Ballo in Maschera" might have been written especially for Stracciari so completely does it lie in the richest range of his glorious barytone voice. Stracciari has made the most of his opportunity in a glorious record of this great operatic gem which is now on sale among the December Columbia Records.

Barbara Maurel, the dainty Alsatian songstress who has created a veritable sensation here, sings two more of her delightful old ballads for Columbia. The selections are "Sous le Boite" and "Sous le Chimes," both on the same record.

"Carmen" and "Il Trovatore" are undoubtedly the world's two most popular operas. It is fitting, therefore, that the great orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera House, which recently signed a contract to make records of operatic music exclusively for Columbia, should have taken selections from these two glorious operas for their December Columbia Record. Everyone knows the music, but to hear it played by this famous ensemble of musicians is to find an added delight in the dramatic strains.

These four records are but a few of the December Columbia group, which includes not only operatic arias, but dance records, popular songs, instrumental Christmas novelty records, and many others too numerous to mention here.

REVENUE TAX COLLECTIONS MAY BE SLOW WORK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Chaotic conditions in the collection of taxes next year now seem unavoidable, according to a treasury statement which has been prepared, commenting on the delay of congress in enacting the pending revenue bill. This statement, to be made public shortly, will explain why the internal revenue bureau is proceeding with plans to collect taxes under the old law, with its levies far below those proposed in the new measure.

USED RESINOL FOR BAD SKIN TROUBLE

Considers Recovery Remarkable.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 14.—"For almost six years I suffered from a severe case of skin trouble which began with itching and intense pain in my legs. Then my leg became inflamed and sores broke out, which itched and burned terribly day and night. I tried many remedies, but gained no relief. I even spent six months in the hospital, and the doctors wanted to amputate my leg. At last I tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and obtained relief from the first application. My knee is now well, and I consider the cure remarkable, as my trouble was very serious." (Signed) Mrs. Henri Mauer, 416 Hooper street.

AMERICAN SHAVE BIG FEED BUT MISS THE TURKEY

AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Thursday, Nov. 28.—(By The Associated Press)—Only one turkey was served on Thanksgiving day in the American army of occupation. This was at the mess of fifteen French and American officers of the bureau of operations at the headquarters of Third division at Remich. The turkey was purchased November 11 and was fattened for the feast today.

Other Thanksgiving dinners in the army varied according to the resourcefulness of the mess officials and the ingenuity of the cooks. Owing to transportation difficulties the quartermaster was unable to furnish the luxuries and trimmings which always mark the last Thursday in November.

While the Americans had plenty of wholesome and substantial food from the enemy lines came further reports of hunger among the released Allied prisoners, food riots among the defeated troops and civilian privations. At the mess of the staff officers of the Thirty-second division a quarter of venison was served. It was a gift from a resident of Luxembourg whose hunting preserve is near the division headquarters at Consdorf. The officers at Second division headquarters at Larochette had duck costing 40 to 50 francs a piece. Chicken took the place of turkey at the tables of the officers of the First division at Canauch. The chicken was nearly as expensive as duck. In other divisions Luxembourg ham costing 20 francs a pound was served.

Among the men there was abundant supply of beef, but and mince meat. The cooks vied with each other in supplying doughnuts, cakes and other forms of sweets and the quartermaster managed to get through extra rations of chocolate.

COALVILLE HAS INFLUENZA RULES

COALVILLE, Nov. 28.—Several more victims of the dreaded "flu" have been claimed in surrounding towns, and it is feared that it will be some time yet before the disease abates. At present Coalville is practically free from the malady, and has been for several weeks, but with people coming and going from towns where the disease prevails, the city is likely to be afflicted again, and the strictest rules possible will be rigidly enforced by the city board of health.

It was the intention of the school board to reopen the schools here next Monday, but even this may be changed and the schools remain closed until the first of the year. However, at this writing nothing definite can be given out. Rules are being drawn by the health board today which will govern the coming and going of people to and from the city, and an effort will be made to have the patrons of the various stores do their shopping as much as possible over the telephone. Where this is impossible, they will be requested to do their shopping quickly and avoid crowds in the various stores. Masks will be worn by customers and employees of the stores.
